Writing a Resume

This lesson is designed to help students gather information and construct a resume that is organized in a professional way.

OBJECTIVES

Students will...

- 1. Learn about the typical format and sections necessary for writing a resume
- 2. Connect information from their own lives to the sections needed for their resume
- 3. Evaluate the information that they've gathered in order to organize and prioritize what will be included on their resume
- 4. Create a resume using the My Resume within MEFA Pathway

ACTIVITIES

PART 1

Content Knowledge

Ask students to write a reflective response to one of the following prompts:

- 1. What do you think employers are looking for in an employee? What type of information would they want to know about a future employee?
- 2. What are colleges looking for in a resume?

Ask a few students to discuss the information they wrote about in their responses. Next, ask students to take notes about resumes. A resume is a written account of someone's educational, personal, and professional qualifications and experiences for a job or position.

Resume writing tips:

- Limit your resume to one page. While it's sometimes okay to have a twopage resume, most employers request a one-page resume. The shorter, the better. You can adjust margin and text size in order to limit your resume to one page.
- Include your name and contact information at the very top and center it. It's also a good idea to have your name in bold and in a larger font than everything else on the page.
- Organize your resume into sections. Bold your section titles in order to visually separate your sections

Typical sections included on a resume:

- Education: A list of the schools you've attended starting with the most recent; includes the attendance dates, location, GPA, and degree earned (if applicable)
- Work Experience: A list of the jobs you've had starting with the most recent; includes position title, job responsibilities, location, and employment dates.

- Activities: A list of the activities you're involved in both in and outside of school, including the amount of time you participate in the activity per week, how many weeks per year you participate in it, the position you hold in that activity, and the location of the activity. List in order of most recent.
- Honors and Awards: A list of honors and awards you've received starting with the most recent. The honor or award name should be listed as well as the date you earned it.
- Skills/Technology Skills: A list of the skills you have that could apply to the position for which you're applying. For instance, you might be skilled in Microsoft Word, HTML, or a foreign language. You should include your level of experience, a description of your skill, and the years of experience you've had with your skill
- Community Service: A list of any non-paying jobs performed for the benefit of the community.
- References: Contacts that can testify to your character, skills, and abilities. Listing references on a resume will depend on the circumstances. Be prepared to provide 3-5 references on a separate list and include your reference's name, current job/position, company, phone number, email address, and your relationship to the person
- Certification: A document that proves you have specific expertise and is issued by an authorized organization. It is helpful to add a professional certification to your resume as it proves evidence of a particular skill.

PART 2

Applying Information

Using their notes from the typical sections of a resume, students should gather information about themselves for each section of the resume.

Evaluating Information

After gathering information for each section of their resume, students should evaluate which information should be included. Remind students that information from elementary school or early middle school is probably not necessary on a resume because it is outdated.

Critical Thinking/Creative Application

Students should log in to MEFA Pathway and navigate to the My Profile page under the About Me tab. Students should complete all of the sections listed; if they do not have information for one of the sections, they should leave it blank.

Students then can create a resume. Have students navigate to My Resume under the About Me tab. Students should start by adding an objective, which is a short statement that describes your positive attributes, academic and/or professional goals. If the resume is for a job application, explain what makes you uniquely qualified for the job in the qualifications box. Then, select items you want to appear on the resume.

Students should name and save their resume in MEFA Pathway. Once saved, resumes can be retrieved, with a format selected (classic or modern), and saved as a PDF or Word Document using the green buttons in the top, right corner. From here, students can edit their resume further if saved as a Word Doc, and/or print it. Students should consider the resume writing tips and use the grading rubric to finalize their resumes.
